COP30: just 10 months to go...

The 30th United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (COP30) will take place from November 10 to 21, 2025, in Belém, in northern Brazil, the capital of the State of Pará within the Amazon. It is a key event aimed at developing strategies to stabilize greenhouse gas concentrations "at a level that prevents dangerous anthropogenic (human-induced) interference with the climate system." COP 30 is also a space for countries to obtain funding to implement their adaptation and mitigation policies for the effects of climate change.

Africa, central to the various COPs

Central Africa, despite the richness of its forest ecosystems and its position as the planet's primary lung, struggles to mobilize funding to implement activities aimed at protecting forests, combating climate change, and ensuring the region's development.

One of the reasons cited is Central Africa's participation in the various COPs in a scattered manner. While several neighbouring forest massifs plan their participation months or even years in advance, in the Congo Basin, interventions are often hastily organized at the last minute or simply cancelled for economic reasons.

All of this suppresses the voice of Central Africa and diminishes its impact during negotiations, significantly reducing the region's chances of having a well-placed pavilion to showcase the region.

"Act quickly to stand out"

Objective of the call for sponsorship

This call for sponsorship of the "COMIFAC Initiatives Pavilion" launched by the Central African Forest Commission (COMIFAC) jointly with the co-facilitation of the French and Gabonese Republics of the CBFP of the Congo Basin Forest Partnership (CBFP) aims to involve all CBFP partners to make Central Africa's participation in COP30 a success.

More specifically, it involves mobilizing funds by September 22, 2025 to:

- Acquire a strategic and highly visible space at COP30 for the "COMIFAC Initiatives Pavilion."
